Mortal Kombat X Latest Version. USC players dismissed for an alleged “rape joke” during a teammate’s funeral were suspended with pay, according to an Athletic Department official. According to the Daily Trojan, two USC players – defensive lineman Chris Steele and running back Tre Madden – were dismissed from the team on Thursday for “team and university regulations violations.” The two have been suspended from the team and eligible to return. ADVERTISEMENT The Athletic Department official explained that Steele and Madden had been suspended since last week. USC’s fifth-year senior running back was dismissed from the team and banned from “any and all promotional events involving USC athletics” after a picture of Madden surfaced online with his arm around a male teammate. “Tre Madden was dismissed from the team and suspended from all promotional events involving USC athletics, and readmitted into the program, effective immediately,” a USC representative said in a statement. “He has been barred from participation in any athletics-related activities during the summer and fall 2017 semesters, and for the academic year that follows. This decision was made in concert with the university.” Steele, a redshirt sophomore, was dismissed from the team and banned from contact or travel with other USC players during an internal investigation into conduct unbecoming of a member of the USC football team. “Mr. Steele
